NEWS NOTES.

The Savannah News says: The woods of Florida are white with the snowy flowers of the dogwood, the borders of the swamps golden with the yellow jessamine and the farm house, buried in a bed of peach and plum blossoms, while the warm air is burdened with fragrance.

A Truckee, Nevada, Chinaman is studying Blackstone and intends shortly to hang out his shingle as an attorney and counsel at law. He proposes to work for his clients for one-half the price charged by the lawyers of Truckee, and by so doing expects to get all the legal business of the place.

The Cherokee nation now numbers 19,000. Its Superintendent of Schools reports that about 2,300 children attend schools; that the schools are in session nine months annually, and that all the English branches are taught, including geometry, rhetoric, etc.; that there are 44 native teachers and 22 palefaces; that they have one orphans school with 90 inmates, one female high school presided over by a teacher from Mt. Holyoke, Mass., and one Moravian missionary school. These schools have been supported by the United States for thirty five years past or since their formation, and about $50,000 is now appropriated by Congress annually to sustain them. The Superintendent thinks that the Nation will in time support the schools without aid from Government.

THE LARGEST DIAMOND IN AMERICA.—The New York Diamond Company exhibited yesterday the largest diamond ever imported into this country. In its rough state it weighed eighty carats. The designing and cutting of this gem were done personally by I. Hermann, President of the company. It was found in the South Africa diamond fields and was valued in the rough at $10,000. It lost about 55 per cent in cutting, and is now valued at about $40,000. It is not for sale, but was exhibited as a choice specimen of a new branch of industry established in this city, which has so far advanced that it rivals in results of workmanship the best efforts of the diamond workmen of Amsterdam. Five months time was occupied in the cutting, and the brilliant, although slightly off color, being a delicate straw shade, is a marvel of beauty. When disturbed by any movement it seems to pour out new floods of light until the eyes are dazzled by its splendor.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, March 3d.

The President has appointed and the Senate confirmed Ada C. Sweet, daughter of the late General B. C. Sweet, United States Pension Agent at Chicago, vice Blakely, resigned.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March [illegible].—Quite a severe storm of rain occurred here this afternoon. To-night the weather is cloudy. Reports from various portions of the interior of the State show that the rainfall was quite general.

The agents of the Mail Company here say they are not anxious about the [illegible], which is seven or eight days overdue from Panama. Her propeller had been shortened, making her a very slow sailer.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—Duffy's Telegraph Bill, which passed the Senate to-day, compels the company to fix a uniform rate for newspapers throughout the State, thus compelling country papers to pay the same as those published in large cities.

Interior California.

SACRAMENTO, March 25.—Three cars of immigrants arrived from the East last night.

A preliminary examination of the charges against Fred Elliott, for attempting to burn the Commercial Hotel on the 20th ultimo and on the 18th inst., also the charge against Donnell, the lessee of the hotel, for the [illegible] incendiary fire, commenced to-day in the Police Court. Thirty witnesses were sworn.

The weather has been cloudy all day. At 4 P. M. a light rain commenced falling, continuing three hours, when it cleared off.

SMARTSVILLE, March 25.—Wm. Brady was shot and killed to-day by Geo. Bushby near Brady's ranch, about 12 miles from Marysville. Some difficulty about grazing sheep is supposed to be the cause, but no particulars. Bushby gave himself up.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 25.—The body of a drowned man was found in Stockton Slough this morning in an advanced stage of decomposition. A Coroner's inquest was held this afternoon, when deceased was recognized as John Green, aged 45 years, who came to this city about two months ago. Verdict—came to death by accidental drowning while in a state of intoxication about the 14th of March.

A fine shower of rain fell here this afternoon. With present prospects the grain yield of this valley will be immense. Farmers on the west side of the San Joaquin were greatly benefited by the late rains, and crops on that side of the river never looked more promising or covered so large an area.

NEVADA, March 25.—A large meeting was held here yesterday by those interested in the construction of a railroad from this city to Colfax. Commissioners were appointed to solicit subscriptions to the road in this city and Grass Valley. To-day the committee waited on our citizens with a subscription list, and up to to-night $80,000 have been subscribed here. The prospect for a railroad now is very encouraging, and the people are feeling very enthusiastic over it. A meeting will be held early next week to organize and incorporate the Company.

It is raining moderately.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

JACKSONVILLE, March 25.—On the 23d inst. H. I. Abbott, an old resident of this valley, was accidentally killed under the following circumstances: Abbott and a neighbor named Alfred Winkle were out panther hunting with their dogs. Having found a panther, it made fight, when Winkle, throwing down his gun to use his knife, it was discharged, the contents passing through Abbott's body, killing him instantly.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Political virtue and courage and statesmanship were never more needed at the Capitol and throughout the States. Do they exist, and will they meet the exigency? That is the question.—Boston Transcript, (Rep.)

Just as fast as the press lifts itself up to the high moral plains where it should stand, and do battle for right against wrong, it will increase its influence not only upon general questions of policy, but upon mere party questions.—[illegible] Star.

Every new inflation antagonizes its own remedy. We disarm ourselves by the very act that intensifies the evil of which we wish to rid ourselves. And behind all else rises the question where inflation once begun is to end.—New Haven Palladium (Rep.)

There may be good reasons for a much [illegible] of the moiety system, but no intelligent observer should lose sight of the fact that the Government is absolutely compelled to resort to extraordinary measures to protect itself from those who are no better than smugglers, but who adopt the more respectable name of importers.—Syracuse Journal, (Rep.)

Throw us back to the cumbrous circuit of system of barter, and business becomes impeded and sluggish. And the attempt to bring us back suddenly to a specie basis is only a stride in the direction of that cumbrous and toilsome way of business. Make currency adequate and it must hold investments. Regular well-paid work makes a happy state of society. Let us have currency.—Toledo Blade (Rep.)

When an informer like Jayne can pocket from a single case like this more than four times the annual salary of the President of the United States, the abuses of such a system are manifest at a glance. How will that profit be used, but for extending and strengthening all such legal enormities, advancing their advocates and banding together their own mulcts? The country must strangle this vicious outgrowth of bad influences since the war, or it will find itself yet at the mercy of the brood it engenders.—[illegible] Journal (Rep.)

EXEMPT FROM TAXATION.

BOSTON, March 12.—Some weeks ago the House of Representatives passed an order requesting the tax commissioners to furnish a statement of the amount of real estate in the several cities and towns of the Commonwealth that is exempted from taxation under the law regarding religious, educational and charitable institutions. The commissioner gives the desired information as far as could be obtained. Twenty two towns were not heard from, but probably they would not add very largely. They were among the smallest in the State. The figures given foot up the enormous sum of $[illegible] exempted from taxation, the several classes of property being credited with the following amounts: Meeting houses $[illegible]; educational institutions other than common schools $[illegible]; charitable institutions $12,110,[illegible]. Of the whole amount Boston, including Charlestown, West Roxbury and Brighton, bears the burden of $[illegible], or over one half, of which the churches under the head of "Meeting houses" [illegible]. Cambridge bears the next heaviest burden, being credited with $6,180,000. But the educational institutions carry nearly five-sixths of the amount, and it will not be necessary to hunt in Harvard college to explain the matter.

A Washington dispatch of the 15th says Representative Clayton and Senator Hager are opposing the confirmation of Col. Coey as Postmaster at San Francisco, on the ground that a large number of business men prefer the reappointment of Stone. Sargent is supporting the nomination.

They have found a spot off the Pacific coast where the ocean is two and a half miles deep, and our duty as a public journalist requires us to call Sergeant Bates' attention to the spot.

THE LIQUOR BUSINESS

The following, taken from the New York [illegible], is [illegible] on the [illegible] movement:

One of our correspondents [illegible] a detailed statement of the amount of intoxicating liquor used in the United States. He says that he has obtained the figures from official documents, and that he has presented them in the following [illegible] form, so that even the casual reader may see how large, both absolutely and relatively, the traffic in intoxicating liquors is in this country.

There were 140,000 licensed liquor saloons in the United States, each having (estimated) forty daily customers, making 5,600,000 drinkers, who it is estimated spent their money during the year in the following proportions:

Drinkers	100,000	spent	$1,000 each	$100,000,000
Drinkers	100,000	spent	900 each	90,000,000

The quantity of distilled, fermented and brewed liquors [illegible] long, and if all the drinkers could be placed in procession, five abreast, they make an army 1,[illegible]0 miles long, and if those killed by intemperate use of spirituous liquors were there also we should see a suicide at every five miles and 300 funerals per day; and if all the places where intoxicating liquors are sold were placed in rows in direct lines, they would make a street 100 miles long.

There were 400,000 more persons engaged in the liquor business in the United States than in preaching the Gospel and school teaching, and from the effects of intoxicating drinks 100,000 are annually sent to prisons, 100,000 to drunkards' graves, and 200,000 children are reduced to want. The total number of persons engaged in the business is [illegible]00,000, of which 56,[illegible] are employed in making and selling annually [illegible] barrels of beer.

It is estimated that the clergy of the United States costs annually $12,000,000, the lawyers, criminals, prisons, etc., $90,000,000, and intoxicating liquors, as before said, $1,474,000,000.

The State of Pennsylvania spent during the year 1870 for liquors of all kinds $152,66[illegible], and for schools and teaching $6,86[illegible],720. She had engaged in the liquor business 78,860 persons, 16,570 school teachers, and 24,000 criminals—four fifths of whom were made so by strong drink.

The city of Philadelphia had 4,160 drinking places, and spent for intoxicating drinks $30,000,000 in one year. Chicago had [illegible] liquor saloons and spent for intoxicating liquors $11,000,000. Newark had [illegible] drinking saloons and spent for strong drinks $4,000,000.

The city of New York had 7,000 licensed drinking saloons, which if placed in rows in direct lines would make a street like Broadway thirteen miles long. She spent for intoxicating liquors $60,000,000 during the year 1870, and there were employed in the business [illegible],000 persons. She had 150 churches and chapels, and there were engaged in preaching and teaching in the public and private schools [illegible],000 persons, all of which to support cost $[illegible]. The total sum invested in the liquor business of all kinds amounted to $[illegible]; in the manufacturing business $60,000,000, and the banking business $80,000,000. The Police Department cost $[illegible], and in public amusements $[illegible] were spent. The [illegible] bill was $20,000,000, [illegible] and the daily consumption of [illegible] was 40,000 kegs. There were [illegible] arrests for intoxication and disorderly conduct, and 50,000 persons were in institutions under care of the Commissioners of Public Charities.

THE TEMPERANCE SIMOON

[illegible] THE CRUSADE IN NEW YORK—AT HARRY HILL'S [illegible]

NEW YORK, March 8.—Harry Hill's place [illegible] amusement [illegible]. His [illegible] Houston street presented a livelier [illegible] than ever [illegible] Harry had even [illegible]. The praying and preaching band, who [illegible] might be [illegible] an attraction [illegible] [illegible] Harry's was full to overflowing. [illegible] persons were crammed close as sardines in his little variety theater, which [illegible] still larger [illegible]. The new [illegible] was accordingly great. The praying band did appear, the leaders of the band being Mrs. P. R. Lawrence. They prayed and sang [illegible]. The praying was the greatest novelty on the bill, while the singing was very decidedly more dull than they have [illegible]. The audience was largely composed of working men and a sprinkling of persons of respectable standing, drawn thither either from curiosity or strong sympathy with the movement. Mr. McMullen was the first speaker. He said nothing remarkable, but was so loud in his encomiums of Harry Hill's courtesy and generosity that one worthy in the crowd remarked [illegible]. The [illegible] stands [illegible] following letter was read:

NEW YORK, March 8, 1874.—[illegible] Proprietor of The [illegible]: We were disappointed in not finding you in your office yesterday, and I now write to ask when you will grant us an interview.

Your brave battles with the frauds of the city, your kind interest in marshalling the poor children's picnics in the country and your interest in all moral and religious charities induce us earnestly to [illegible] the [illegible]. Will you permit us to hold a prayer meeting [illegible]? We cannot [illegible] admit the devastating [illegible] of the [illegible] traffic.

IN BEHALF OF THE [illegible]

Then came a letter to James Gordon Bennett, as commodore of the Yacht Club, referring to his donation of $10,000 to the poor, and asking him to aid them in diminishing the causes of nine-tenths of its poverty. The letter says: "As Commodore of the Yacht Club will you set the example and stand by this motto: No more liquor in the Yacht Club? Come forward boldly and give up the [illegible] that robs the poor of ten thousand millions annually." Another letter read was addressed to Rev. Dr. Morgan and the trustees of Trinity church. It says: "Your church represents vast wealth. Your clergy preach the Gospel of Christ, but your officers corrupt the teachings of the pulpit and practice the work of the devil. Will you not cancel your lease? The excuse that they are not ours cannot efface the terrible wrong you are doing in the name of the church. This difficulty is easily avoided by compromising with the tenants, all of whom in these hard times would willingly take a sum of money to throw up their rentals. You can afford to reduce your income to help our crusade against the demon rum."

A letter to Senator Carpenter, President of the Senate, Washington, requested him to join the movement and step to the front in its support. The letter says: "We want you and Chandler and Sprague to form a committee to receive our praying band at the bar of the Senate. Congress is beginning to recognize this leading reform. The bill just passed to investigate drunkenness proves this. Will you read this appeal to the Senate asking permission to receive our band under the escort of the worthy Chaplain?"

Letters to A. T. Stewart and Wm. B. Astor were read, requesting the former to prevent the sale of rum in the Metropolitan and Union Square Hotels and the latter in the Astor House. The letter to Mr. Stewart says: "You cannot afford to make money through the death of your fellow citizens. Will you be the first to close your rum shops?" The one to Mr. Astor says: "The Astor House has done more harm in the last 30 years than the Astor Library has done good."

A letter to Rev. Dr. Hall asks for the use of his church, and letters to Christian ministers in the Temperance Council in the Young Men's Association Hall and to Rev. Henry Ward Beecher asked them to substitute water for wine in the sacrament.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

[illegible] begin to appear on the streets to gain the benefit of the fair weather.

The pleasant weather for a few days past is reviving things generally. Grass and grain are coming forward, and from present indications there will be fine crops the coming season.

A national salute was fired this (Wednesday) morning in the Garrison at sunrise, and guns are fired each half hour throughout the day, in honor of the late ex-President Millard Fillmore.

The Grangers are creating considerable commotion in the political ranks, and are making politicians uneasy. The people propose to select men for office who will work for their interests. Professional politicians are to take a back seat next November.

The public schools, which were closed about a week ago on account of sickness in the families, [illegible] suspended, and now it is thought best not to re-open the schools till after the summer vacation.

The troops at this place were paid off on Monday, and the saloons and theaters are doing a flourishing business. Vivian was here on Monday evening and drew a large house. The Minstrels from the Twenty First Infantry gave one of their popular entertainments on Tuesday evening.

THE NEW ARMY BILL.

A Washington dispatch of March 14th furnishes the annexed summary of the provisions of the new Army Bill:

The bill for the gradual reduction of the army of the United States was reported to-day from the Committee on Military Affairs. It provides that in the cavalry, artillery and infantry no new commissions shall issue, nor shall there be any promotions or enlistments until the cavalry shall be reduced to nine regiments, the artillery to four and the infantry to twenty. Before January 1st, 1875, the army is to be reduced to 25,000 men. Any officer of the army may resign and shall be entitled to one year's pay besides what may be due at the date of his resignation. The grades of Regimental Adjutant and Regimental Quartermaster are abolished, and Lieutenants holding them are to be ordered to their regiments. The bill changes the modes of payment and provides for the delivery of a draft to the person to whom the amount may be due. On the frontier posts, however, it may be paid in currency. At present no officer now in service shall be reduced in rank or be mustered out by reason of anything in the bill or by reason of consolidation of regiments. So soon as practicable after the passage of the bill the General of the army and the commanding officers of the several military departments shall forward to the Secretary of War the names of officers deemed unfit for the discharge of their duties for any cause except injuries incurred or disease contracted in line of duty, whereupon a Committee shall be appointed to ascertain if they shall be mustered out. Any officer who has served for thirty years and is removed by this clause may be placed on the retired list. No appointments to fill any grades in the departments of corps or staff shall be made until the army is reduced in each case to that permanently fixed in this bill.

THE UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION AT GENEVA, SWITZERLAND.—The details for the great Universal Exhibition to be held in Geneva in 187[illegible] are nearly complete. The plan for the building has been prepared by M. Jules Chatron, the architect of the Lyons Exhibition. The structure will occupy no less than [illegible]00,000 square metres, apart from 50,000 reserved for purposes of embellishment. It will stand in a matchless position, looking upon the side of the lake. Its galleries are intended to radiate from a central cupola of magnitude hitherto unequaled. In the center of this will rise a mighty column, from which the whole interior of the edifice may be overlooked, while externally a gleaming sculptural figure, dwarfing all the efforts of art and man, [illegible] will expand. [illegible] and are visible the Lake Leman in its full range, the Jura, the Swiss Alps and Mont Blanc [illegible]. As the public high road will come between the building and the lake, it is proposed to connect them by a suspension bridge having the aspect of triumphal arches and spanning down to jetties prepared for the occasion. The structural plan embraces a vast orchestral concert hall capable of holding about 4,000 musicians, and moreover a [illegible] saloon [illegible].

The Louisville Ledger has been puzzled for a long time to know why the women of Massachusetts make more noise than their sisters in other States. Archbishop Whately once propounded a similar conundrum: "Why do white sheep eat more than black ones?" and answered it with the inevitable reply: "Because there are more of them."

OREGON.

The proprietor of the Salem [illegible] has [illegible] a four legged chicken.

Apples retail at five cents a pound at La Grande, and hay at $20 per ton.

There is still two feet of snow in the upper Willow Creek [illegible].

The case of smallpox reported near Salem is now settled three or four miles from the city.

A small house in South Salem caught fire last Tuesday, but the fire was extinguished without much damage resulting.

Frank Hibler, arrested at Salem last Saturday for arson, waived an examination and was held to answer. Bail $400, not given; in jail.

It is said that the road from Cayuse to Umatilla is in excellent condition, but in the vicinity of Weston they are very muddy.

La Grande expects to begin the shipment of flour to this point soon. The Sentinel says flour at $5 a barrel [illegible] awaiting the starting of the freight line.

A temperance meeting held at Salem last Monday night was not a very successful affair. Ten cents admission fee was charged at the door, a new feature.

Lot Livermore of Pendleton has bought a large lot of furs and is still buying. He pays good prices and wants to ship $2,000 worth to an Eastern market soon.

A lot of youngsters at Summerville, Union Co., were arrested last week for disturbing a religious meeting. Several places in Oregon outside of Portland have their proportion of hoodlums.

Mr. Slater has notified M. P. Bull to deliver up possession of La Grande Sentinel office and material on or before the 20th inst. Mr. Bull has procured other material, we believe, and will continue the paper.

Senator Mitchell writes to a citizen of Union county that he is urging with strong hopes of success a change in the policy of the Interior Department in reference to the Wallowa valley, so that it will soon be opened to settlers.

A Mr. Fiebler of La Grande examined some horses which had died of what was supposed to be epizootic, and called by some black distemper. He found that consumption was the cause of death. Mr. F. lost about ten head. The lungs of those he examined were all, or nearly all, gone.

William C. Pettyjohn was arrested at Salem, Wednesday afternoon, on a charge of procuring the burning of the barn for the firing of which Frank Hibler was arrested last Friday night. Waiving examination, he was held in the sum of $800, for which he procured bonds without trouble.

Jefferson Collins, who was convicted of stealing a pair of boots in Union and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or go to jail 25 days, and who escaped while the constable at Union was tripping the light fantastic, was caught near La Grande last week, and now lies pining for liberty in the county jail.

The Forest Grove Debating Club met as usual on Monday evening and discussed the question: Resolved, "That the usury law be abolished," the principal disputants being W. Bowlby affirming and J. Bilyew, Esq., denying. The question, after being thoroughly discussed, was decided in favor of the affirmative.

In the protracted meeting now in progress in Pendleton, under the supervision of Elder Hines and Rev. C. Derrick, considerable interest is manifest. Several accessions have been made, and it is thought by the unconverted [illegible] future.

At a meeting of the temperance people and saloon keepers in Salem the other evening, a statistician of the anti temperance school stated that nearly "all the ills that flesh is heir to" was due to the inordinate use of saleratus. Thought that 85 out of 100 persons died by the use of this article, and that steps ought to be taken to have prohibitory laws passed to abolish the use of this deleterious Bicarbonate of potash.

THE TERRITORIES.

Advices from Peshastin creek, Yakima county, give very poor prospects for diggings in that country.

An old man has been arrested at Walla Walla on a charge of having beaten his wife so severely as to produce abortion.

Postmaster Burr at Olympia has received notification that after the 31st inst. the mail route between Monticello and Olympia will be discontinued except from Tenino to Olympia. This is understood to mean that hereafter the mail for down Sound offices will be taken to Tacoma instead of passing through the Olympia postoffice as heretofore.

The Olympia Courier of Tuesday last says: As Mr. Rose, who lives in the vicinity of Eld Inlet, was coming into town this morning carrying a shot gun, the lock came in contact with something which caused the discharge of the gun, and the whole load was lodged in his left arm below the elbow, inflicting a very painful and ugly wound.

A. H. Vaughn, of Willow Creek, Boise county, met with an accident a few weeks ago by which he has and is likely to always loose the sight of one of his eyes. It occurred in chopping up willow sticks into wood, holding one end in his hand and using the ax with the other to strike the stick, when the farther end flew up and struck him in the eye. Since then he has suffered a great deal, and it still continues painful. He has not been able to see out of it, and the doctors think he never will.

THURSDAY MORNING MARCH 26 1874

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT

The unusual activity of the opposition to the traffic in intoxicating beverages at the present time throughout the entire length and breadth of the Republic is very remarkable. Never before has the whole of the great American community been aroused at the same moment to make a vigorous onslaught upon the evil of intemperance. There have been temperance excitements as there have been excitements upon other subjects, but they have hitherto been confined to comparatively limited districts and to a very considerable degree confined to persons who were connected with some of the various temperance societies. The agitation at this time is in the hands of all classes of Christian people and the temperance societies, so far as can be judged from outward appearances, are playing no prominent part in the matter. Of course the sentiment which has culminated in the demonstrations now going on has been worked up partially, if not mainly through the agency of the temperance societies, but that sentiment has become more nearly universal in its moderate forms and more aggressive in its more advanced development than the societies could have dreamed was possible.

Nor is the agitation more remarkable for its extent than some of the features which distinguish it from all those that have gone before it in its methods of action. The circulation of pledge of abstinence for signatures by the community at large though not very common, is not new, but the separate pledge for dealers in liquors and for other special classes is a new feature, and the visits of ladies to the saloons for the purpose of singing and prayer, are not only novel but remarkable. The commingling of religious zeal with the sentiment of opposition to intemperance and to all use of spirituous liquors, has brought about these demonstrations, and they will last till the religious element in the temperance sentiment sinks again to its wonted level, or till the obnoxious traffic is suppressed. If the latter result does not come before a great while, it is safe to predict the former will.

It is difficult to imagine that any good good citizen does not sympathize with this movement so far as to desire the suppression of intemperance. The evils of this vice, the misery it entails upon the present and future generations, the burden of taxation, which in one way and another it lays upon the labor and enterprise of the whole community—all these are but too well known to every one—alas! how bitterly known to many! To the use of strong drink may be traced more crime and misery, more pauperism and insanity in Christian countries, than to any other source or all others combined. It were better for the world that every ounce of spirits in existence were destroyed and that the knowledge of the art of making them perish forever, than that the [illegible] for the benefits it may confer as a medical agent can never compensate for the evil it does.

But many reflecting persons, who heartily approve of the movement in its general features, and who sincerely desire it to succeed, will question the propriety of, or the permanent benefit to be derived from the holding of prayer meetings in saloons or on the sidewalks adjacent. There is manifestly an inherent impropriety in the act of entering the business house of any man against his will, and holding religious services there, such an impropriety as can not be overcome but by the strongest moral considerations and the probability of great results in the way of promoting the desired reform. And there is a feeling in the minds of many devout people that prayer, in its true spirit, as it is offered in the closet, at the family altar, or in the house of God, is a different thing from prayer at a saloon keeper. If this is to be a repetition of the miracle of overthrowing a fortified city by the blowing of horns and the breaking of earthen pitchers, then may it be abundantly successful, but if when the excitement passes away the rum-seller is still at his business, the rum drinkers still walking into the pit, and prayer less a sacred thing in the estimation of mankind, then will there be cause of regret for a great loss, as well as rejoicing at whatsoever good the other agencies of temperance reform may have accomplished.

We are not writing against the temperance movement, but we are no doubt writing that which will be misunderstood and condemned by many very excellent persons who are engaged in the crusade, or encouraging those engaged. We only hope that time may prove that we and not they, are in error, that our doubts and not their faith, are without foundation.

NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN

The Democratic State Convention made a very proper beginning when it declared in favor of the modification of the fee bill so as to make the pay of Clerks and Sheriffs only such an amount as will compensate them reasonably for the services they render. In some counties the fees of each of these offices amount to many thousands of dollars per annum, while in [illegible] owing to the small amount of business done by them their pay is [illegible] than the proceeds of a year spent in any other legitimate business. In order [illegible] justice in this matter [illegible] pensation where it is [illegible] cutting down fees in the [illegible] to guess that will [illegible] cers it will be [illegible] tion in regard to the business [illegible] counties and then adjust the law [illegible] of the [illegible] County Judges and [illegible] urers [illegible] some other officers [illegible] ent compensations in different counties and we know no reason why the same should not be the case with Clerks, Sheriffs and all other officers whose [illegible] are different in different counties [illegible] in which who has a very large [illegible] of custom can afford to give better [illegible] proportionably than one who [illegible] small trade [illegible] true of [illegible] whether officers or private individuals.

The officers are not to be blamed for accepting the remuneration offered them by the law. It is the fault of the Legislatures that pass the laws and the Governors who approve them that the business of the community is taxed two or three times as high as it should be in some of the more populous counties to pay these officers. The officers themselves take but what they are entitled to [illegible] the law remains.

But the law should be changed. To change it so as to work no injustice will require somewhat more of application to details than the average legislator is apt to enjoy, but these public servants are elected to serve the public and they can render no better service than to give themselves honestly to the work of reducing the expenses of the Government to the lowest possible point. This must be done by resolutions [illegible] the authority or direction of the people to have it done, but there must be personal, active and careful attention to the matter by those who are set to the task of making and unmaking the laws. We trust the Democratic members who may be in the Legislature will not lose sight of the instruction they have received from their party convention and that the other conventions will not fail to give the same wholesome advice to their candidates and hold them responsible for the performance of the work ordered.

For some time past the Washington Chronicle and Mr Clapp, the gentleman who runs the Agricultural Report factory and who is commonly known as Government Printer, have not been on the best of terms. The Chronicle has been waltzing into Clapp at a lively rate and Clapp has just begun to respond. In the Senate two weeks ago Mr Anthony presented an affidavit signed by H E Clapp, clerk in the Government printing office, in which the affiant declares that in January last the business managers of the Chronicle persuaded him (C) to lend to that enterprising sheet 10 reams of printing paper valued at $231 60, and that although the borrowers promised to replace the [illegible] they have not done so, and deponent expects to replace said paper from his own purse, as he had no authority to make said loan. Clapp goes on to say that a short time ago the Chronicle sent to his office a bill for advertising proposals amounting to over $100 and that he refused to pay it, whereupon the Chronicle published a very calumnious article on the management of the Government Printing Office. And deponent believes that the Chronicle was actuated by motives of [illegible]. We cannot get at the probable result of this shabby proceeding. Most likely the Senate will spend a few hours discussing the matter and that means something like $50 000 more or less to the taxpayers. Perhaps a Committee to Investigate the Finances of Court Journals will be appointed. Brother Harlan's righteousness can't stand many more investigations. We hope he will pay that little $231 60 to Mr Clapp.

The Goodrich murder mystery has again come to the surface. Lizzie L King, alias Kate Stoddard, who is now confined in Brooklyn jail charged with the murder of Charles Goodrich in March 1873, publishes a long statement purporting to contain all that she [illegible]. She retired early. He was reading a paper in the dining room. She had slept over two hours, when she was awakened by a pistol shot. She dressed herself, went down stairs and found Goodrich lying on the floor with his own revolver at his feet. For some time she thought he had committed suicide, but subsequent developments led her to believe that he had been murdered. She denies that she ever confessed to the murder and declares that she never had seen Lucette Myers until the latter appeared as a witness. This is the gist of her story. We cannot see that it adds any item of importance to the literature of the Goodrich murder. Roscoe the Spaniard hasn't been arrested for some time, and people are beginning to lose interest in the affair.

Capt William S Evans, a prominent manufacturer of Pittsburg (Penn), has commenced a suit for libel against Commodore W. S. Kountz, a wealthy steamboat owner of the same State. The action is to be based on an article published in Donn Piatt's Capital of the 8th inst, in which it was charged that Evans robbed the Government of half a cargo of Indian annuity goods while in transit on one of his boats. Kountz is known to war historians as commander of the steamboat fleet under Grant at Cairo in 1861. A correspondent unearths this anecdote of President Lincoln and one of the parties to the suit:

It is said that Kountz visited Washington shortly after the battle of Belmont, in which Grant was repulsed by the rebels, and in a conversation with President Lincoln intimated that Grant was drunk at the time. To this the President replied that if he knew where Grant got his whisky he would order a barrel of it sent to each of the Union Generals.

In the last will and testament of Senator Charles Sumner, Henry W Longfellow, Edward L Pierce and Francis V Balch are named executors. A Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times, speaking of the elegant taste which was evident in every part of the Senator's home in Washington, says:

The deceased Senator [illegible] surrounded at his home by many rare treasures of art, such as statuettes, paintings, engravings, vases, [illegible] mantel [illegible] etc. Among the curiosities which he valued very highly is the Bible used by Bunyan when he wrote his immortal "Pilgrim's Progress." [illegible] is the autograph of Bunyan, while the margin is full of notes in his handwriting. Another valuable literary curiosity is the manuscript poem of Burns [illegible] to Mr Sumner by [illegible] to whom it was presented by [illegible]. The [illegible] is remarkably neat and plain [illegible]

The conduct of the [illegible] the very best and purest [illegible] community, and to offer insult to them while they are engaged in the performance of what to them is a high duty [illegible] as well as to [illegible]

The [illegible] people as indulge in the [illegible] practice of letter writing—are greatly scandalized just now over the irregularities of certain [illegible] who have been [illegible] The [illegible] of the [illegible]

[illegible] loaned. A [illegible] found a large package of letters in the box of [illegible] the negroes. Seventy-nine of the letters contained drafts and checks. Is it possible that our colored friend and brother is deteriorating to the grade of the average bank clerk of the period?

The Bulletin [illegible] sensitive [illegible] anything that may reflect even indirectly upon the railway companies [illegible] reply to our remarks on the advantages which had accrued to the producing classes up the valley by reason of [illegible] the river, and in order to place the matter in such a condition [illegible] controverts [illegible] [illegible] is that [illegible] portion of both [illegible] especially when the whole argument rests on the error. But when the Bulletin [illegible] with a [illegible] of the truth [illegible] railway [illegible] rather than [illegible] statement.

Here is a bit of news which while it may not be thoroughly appreciated in this country of republican simplicity and salary grabs may yet show up the awful tyranny of some of the crowned despots. The Japan Gazette of February [illegible] says: The Emperor has ordered that he will pay tax equally with his subjects. He will pay about $25,000.

So shines a good deed in a naughty world.

M. de Keratry has presented to the French Assembly a petition in which M. Gambetta is accused of having sacrificed the national defense to political designs, and the Deputies of the Right are disposed to push the matter even to an impeachment of the distinguished Irreconcilable.

In case of the passage of Senator Hipple's bill creating a new Land District with Land Office at the Dalles, Mr John Stearns and Mr Z T Moody are to be Register and Receiver respectively. Excellent appointments.

The New York Tribune says of this reply: General Butler has very shrewdly taken advantage of the [illegible] to throw the whole [illegible] upon the Tribune.

CITY.

BATTLE [illegible] TEMPERANCE —The prayer meetings held at the Taylor Street Church in behalf of the temperance cause under the auspices of the Women's Temperance League still continue to attract nightly crowded houses and to elicit earnest attention and powerful interest. Last evening the [illegible] room was crowded with [illegible] attentive audience. The usual order of devotional exercises was observed and one of the most profitable and interesting seasons of prayer was experienced since the inauguration of these meetings. Truly a deep and intense [illegible] interest is being kindled for the all important subject and at every evening's work clearly [illegible] that the friends and champions of the temperance movement are fully alive to the magnitude and importance of the work before them. Songs of [illegible] were sung, fervent prayers were offered up and strong earnest and eloquent speeches were made. Although the movement was inaugurated under many discouragements and has been maintained in the face and teeth of the most united and defiant opposition [illegible] those who deal in intoxicating beverages, yet the champions signify by their persistent determination unwavering purpose [illegible] faltering trust in the assurance of prayer that they intend to fight the battle through to victory or defeat. To-day and this evening these meetings will be resumed.

DID NOT SAIL —Advertisements in [illegible] of San Francisco made the announcement that the steamer Ella Tabor would sail from that port for Portland last Saturday. The press of this city readily took up the refrain and gave publicity to the fact. But it seems after all that the announcement was premature, for up to the present writing not a single word has been received as to the promised sailing of the vessel by telegraph or otherwise. It is not at all probable that the Tabor has sailed, for if she had the telegraph would certainly have announced the fact ere this. Yesterday we had some conversation with a gentleman who was a passenger on the Ajax. He informs us that prior to the sailing of the Ajax from San Francisco learning that the Tabor was to be put on as an opposition steamer and that fares were to be reduced, made application on board that vessel for a ticket. He was informed that they were not ready just then to accommodate him but if he would call around again they would sell him a ticket. He did so but on calling at a later hour was informed that a compromise was effected between the two companies and that the Tabor would not sail at all for Portland. When the Ajax sailed the gentleman says the Tabor was lying at the Mission street wharf, and to all appearances would not sail. From this we should infer that the hopes so often expressed that we would soon have an opposition line is not likely to be realized for the present.

NEW PROPELLER —The hull for a new propeller now lies at the foot of [illegible] street and will be ready for the reception of the machinery and boiler in a few days. This craft is owned by Mr Jas Williams who lives down the Columbia, and will be used in carrying salmon about in connection with the fisheries. The boat is 48 feet long, 12 feet beam and four feet hold, and has a registered capacity of about five tons. The hull and deck have been finished and painted, and the upper works will soon be commenced. The machinery is being built at the Willamette Iron Works and will be finished by the last of the present week. The engines—there will be two—are of 6-inch bore and 8 inch stroke. Steam will be generated by two small boilers, each 8 feet long, 30 inches in diameter, with 64 tubes each 2½ inches in diameter. The propeller is 5 feet in diameter, with three flukes. Within three weeks from date the little craft will be ready for service.

O F M COMPANY —The Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Company lately organized in our city, are proposing to begin at once the enterprises in contemplation. Gentlemen connected with the Company will sail on the Ajax for San Francisco to-morrow to select from the best [illegible] in that city a complete stock of carpets, oil-cloths curtains etc., embracing everything in that line. They will also make arrangements to receive such goods hereafter directly from manufacturers at the East and in Europe. The [illegible] have already ordered the machinery complete for their new steam factory and it will soon be here ready to set up, when the Company will immediately begin the manufacture of furniture of every description. Success to home manufactures.

SOLD OUT —The French brig [illegible], concerning which so much has been said of late, has again changed hands, or rather the ownership has been concentrated. On Tuesday we learn the transfer was made. Mr George W Hume we understand is now the sole owner and proprietor of the Sale, having purchased the interests held by the other seven owners. The vessel will be brought up to his fishery in a few days where she will be recaulked, rigged, tightened up and rendered perfectly seaworthy. It is Mr Hume's intention to load the Sale with bolts for San Francisco. The terms of the sale are private and we are not at liberty to state the purchase price.

SURPRISED ALL ROUND —Our young friend Wm A Hart, who returned on the last steamer, was very agreeably surprised last evening. About half past [illegible] o'clock the East Portland Band filed into his store in a very unceremonious manner and without saying a word, began to play a number of lively airs. Hart didn't exactly like that mode of proceeding, but Tom Parrott assured him it was all right, no offense was intended, the band simply took that method of welcoming his return. Billy smiled audibly, blushed, and passed the cigars around. The serenade was a success and all the crowd went away well pleased.

THREE SHORT BITS —One man who looks to his dimes and dollars [illegible] resolved to be liberal yesterday. He had in ferred and was highly elated about the time the ladies made their appearance at one of the saloons. He invited a friend to [illegible] and accidentally observing a [illegible] felt in duty bound to treat the [illegible] making sure that he had three short bits [illegible] liquidate for same. They drank as [illegible] drank before and although [illegible] three short bits he was [illegible] happy. How he slept last night we leave the reader to determine.

STEAM ENGINES —Reference [illegible] several times in these columns [illegible] tion of a new steamboat [illegible] ply on the waters of the [illegible] ent season. Work on the [illegible] craft has already been commenced. The engines, which were cast at the Willamette Iron Works are receiving the [illegible] and will be ready to ship [illegible] All the team connections [illegible] be made here, but the boiler [illegible] chased below.

AT LEE'S CHAPEL —[illegible] of Lee's Chapel [illegible] meet on next Friday [illegible] the purpose of discussing [illegible] tion in all its phases and especially [illegible] politics. The [illegible] measures to mitigate the [illegible] and invite [illegible] pate in the meeting [illegible] made at [illegible] perance question. The work [illegible]

SAFELY [illegible] —We [illegible] Ledger that Mr W [illegible] accountant, well known in [illegible] deal and understand [illegible] months [illegible] Mr Moore [illegible] residing in Pittsburg.

[illegible] ELECTION —[illegible] No 1 embracing [illegible] notifying the voters of [illegible] an election will be held at Mason [illegible] the [illegible] day of April whereat one School Clerk will be elected for the [illegible] polls will be opened at 2 and [illegible] P M.

OUR THANKS —The East Portland Band under the efficient leadership of Thomas Parrott, will accept the compliments of the OREGONIAN office for a number of animated airs which they discoursed in their most approved style last evening [illegible] grow less.

FOR INTERMENT —The remains of the unfortunate man Hough which were found some time since near the head of Sauvie's Island, he having destroyed his life while in a fit of despondency, were exhumed by some of his friends and brought to this city a few days since. They were properly encased in a casket by the undertaker of this city and forwarded to Salem yesterday morning where they will be interred under the supervision of his immediate friends.

OFFICERS ELECTED —At a meeting recently held by the Directors of the Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Company Samuel Lowenstein was elected President, [illegible] Vice President and Wm Kapus Secretary. This Company proposes to commence [illegible] operation about the [illegible] of next month.

DIED SUDDENLY —[illegible] an [illegible] respected citizen of this [illegible] suddenly [illegible] at his residence [illegible] He had been ill [illegible] supposed that he was [illegible] with heart disease.

THE [illegible] SAILS —By [illegible] advertisement in another column it will be observed that the steamer [illegible] leaves for San Francisco [illegible] o'clock A M. Merchants and parties contemplating taking [illegible] should [illegible] fact.

[illegible] HEATER —A very large heater [illegible] [illegible] heat the water prior to its being pumped into the boiler which will be used on board the tug [illegible] now being built at one of the foundries of the city. The heater is 10 feet long and 4 feet in diameter.

INVADING THE SALOONS

Yesterday the second day of the crusade upon the saloons a larger crowd assembled on the streets to witness the movements of ladies who had labored for two or three hours the day previous in two saloons with little success. Shortly after eleven o'clock the said ladies thirteen in number appeared on First street and Green Cosmopolitan Saloon, First and Alder streets, was the objective point and the hour selected was the liveliest of the day at this large and elegant establishment. Mr Green was in waiting and received the ladies in the politest manner possible. The entrance was occupied and the usual exercises were proceeded with. An immense crowd gathered in the street, and as a back door afforded entrance to the saloon many took advantage of the open door to gain admittance. The bar keepers had their hands full, almost every man in the saloon stepping up to the bar and taking round after round of liquor and bumpers [illegible] at that. A brisker trade was never driven at the Cosmopolitan than during this brief period of prayer. There was no loud talk, no jeering, nor any demonstration upon the part of those present, as Mr Green used precaution to prevent it. A saloon keeper who had used some unbecoming remarks relative to the ladies was quickly rebuked by Mr Green and deservedly too. The individual referred to has done everything to injure himself and, unexpectedly to many who had thought better of him. Civility wins friends and the proprietors of saloons who act with due regard to decency lose nothing by carrying out that principle. The devotional exercises in the doorway having come to a close the ladies were politely invited to the billiard room up stairs and the invitation was accepted. Here seats were provided and once more the ladies entered into the work by offering up prayer, singing and delivering earnest addresses to the large number who had by this time gathered about the spacious apartment. The bar in this room was besieged and drinks of every quality and in large quantities were gulped down by a number of persons. After remaining some twenty minutes the ladies wended their way through the main saloon to the street. The crowd not expecting a meeting to be held at that time did not follow the procession but lingered about the streets in anticipation of another demonstration later in the day. The ladies returned to the Methodist Church and shortly after 2 o'clock by written invitation (whether sent by the saloon keeper or not we could not say) they, with an additional force of four or five women marched to the Postoffice Exchange kept by K Seeling. This is a jobbing house where samples are kept and those indulging can select from the shelves to suit their tastes. The bar room being cleared the customary routine of singing, praying and sermonizing was observed. Meanwhile the room in front filled with men prominent among whom were dealers in liquors who on each previous occasion occupied positions of prominence and urged others to imbibe freely for the time. The spectators observed these men particularly. It certainly did not reflect credit upon them and their better course would have been to remain at home instead of heading the crowd and making sport of the course taken by the women. Men engaged in the liquor business can command respect if they will but if they (only a few however) pursue the course begun on Tuesday and which we have just referred to they will lose many friend who have heretofore stood by them. Men who have acted in a gentlemanly manner towards the ladies are to be lauded for their actions. Nothing is gained by anyone who [illegible] his utmost to injure the women engaged [illegible] temperance work. The proprietor of [illegible] last saloon visited [illegible] the loss of [illegible] eral drinks unpaid. In the extreme [illegible] many took advantage of the opportunity to pour down a quantity of liquor, taking it for granted that the proprietor would bring the hard something of the occasion. This latter may [illegible] anxious to have the ladies call again if like results follow. The [illegible] premises after a stay of over thirty minutes. As the procession moved [illegible] evidently with a view to [illegible] the large [illegible] on First street [illegible] followed. The [illegible] however [illegible] up Second street, thence to Morrison and Third to the Methodist church the followers being augmented by additions at every corner. This closed the saloon work for the day. We presume the crusaders will renew their efforts to win converts to the temperance cause to-day by making calls on saloons not already visited. So far they have not been [illegible] mode of procedure against the dealers and [illegible] in this community.

A ROMANTIC CHAPTER

The Walla Walla [illegible] contains a [illegible] which illustrates the fact that [illegible] age. It was a marriage without courtship, a wedding without [illegible] and a separation without a quarrel. Last fall a young lady of about twenty two years of age went up from Portland and has since been residing in Walla Walla. She was [illegible] a stranger. There was a gay Doctor late of [illegible] late surgeon in the Army [illegible] late of Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles and all the rest of California. He sported a surgeon badge and a short stemmed brier [illegible] pipe and professed to have been all over the world and through a portion of Texas. He talked fluently and [illegible] up for [illegible] works. He played billiards [illegible] and seemed to get along in [illegible] careless of his money.

It so turned out that on Thursday of last week the Doctor [illegible] the [illegible] to the [illegible] show that night. The next day he called on her at her [illegible] and in the evening again took her to the [illegible]. On the next day they took a little walk [illegible] and [illegible] got a [illegible] [illegible] of the Peace and were [illegible] and had everything put out [illegible] leaving the office. But [illegible] the Doctor that his religious conscience bound him to be married by a priest [illegible] still [illegible] he took himself [illegible] the hotel and for the States doubtless thinking that he had performed an unparalleled feat in the way of courtship, marriage and separation, having accomplished all that we have detailed in the space of just three days. But while all this going on only a few knew anything about it. The groom told no one and the bride told no one except one person, for woman like she had a secret and must have help to keep it. On Sunday evening while the exiled and fast traveling husband was buffeting the snows of the Blue mountains the [illegible] wife went to church with

He little thought that he was [illegible] his sweetness on the desert air by making himself agreeable to [illegible] On Wednesday morning the young lady also concluded to emigrate and started Portlandward armed with her certificate of marriage. But not until after she had left was it known except to a very few that she had lost a husband almost as soon as she found him. Neither was it known that the Doctor had concluded to

DOUBLE HIS RESPONSIBILITY AS A HUSBAND

For it is now reported that he has already another wife and child in the State of California. It is doubtful if either wife ever sees the gay young Doctor again but should the two wives meet we should not be surprised to hear of tall hair pulling extraordinary. Whether it was a case of

[illegible] FIRST SIGHT

Or a marriage for convenience is to us unknown but it seems that the Doctor who came here dead broke had plenty of money about the time of his marriage which he invested in a high old drunk and a third class through ticket to Baltimore. The congratulations of their friends follow them each in their solitary wedding tour.

His name was Dr Carroll B Trash late etc and hers was Miss [illegible] Forbes.

A MILD MANNERED MAN

A certain mining superintendent on the Comstock range, Nevada, who shall be nameless here, has the smoothest way of doing all manner of unpleasant things of any man above the sod. He may be said to oil the very hinges of the world as he moves along through it. The superintendent never makes things "rough" for any one where he can just as well make them smooth. As an instance, he had some men working in a drift in his mine who were inclined to take things easy. Visiting them he examined the rock in the face of the drift, saying:

"My dear boys, this rock seems very hard."

"Very hard," said they.

"It's too bad, too bad that it should be so hard," said he, slyly making a mark on the rock in the face of the drift; "terrible work to get it out," added he.

"Terrible," they said.

"Too bad," said he, "but do the best you can, my children."

The next day he again made his appearance in the drift. Examining the rock in its face, he saw that no perceptible advance had been made beyond his mark.

"I see," said he, "that rock is as hard as ever."

"No change," said the men.

"Well, well, it's too bad that we can get no change. The rock is so hard that I hardly know what we shall do. It is hard on you, my children, but I hope it will not worry you much longer. Take care of yourselves." And up to the surface he goes, finds his foreman, and thus addresses him:

"See here, those infernal loafing devils in that southeast drift hadn't made two inches in the last two days. Curse such men. When they come up give them their time."

Strolling along C street during the afternoon, the superintendent meets the "children" of the southeast drift, who have received their walking papers and are starting out in search of "new worlds to conquer."

The superintendent is greatly surprised.

"Why, hello! my children, what are you doing up here at this time of day? Has anything happened at the mine?"

"No," said they, "nothing the matter, but the foreman has discharged us."

"Discharged you, my children! I don't know what I shall do with that foreman. I never get a set of good, industrious men but he goes and discharges them. Too bad, too bad, the way he uses me. Discharged my best men, and the rock in the drift so hard, too! What I am to do now I don't know. Well, well, good by, my children; we all have little trials in this world."

GOLCONDA

TOMBS OF THE KINGS.

Beautiful indeed are the environs of Golconda, adorned with the tombs of her former rulers! Magnificent mausoleums of marble and gold—marble wrought with the finest chiseling—woodwork where the delicate tracery of the carver is covered over with rich gold, so that the whole seems as if wrought in the priceless gold mines of the world. The architecture of these noble monuments of olden times although neither Ionic, Gothic, nor Corinthian, is at once impressive and effective. In fact, all the monuments of the Hindoos seem calculated to inspire the beholder with awe and admiration. While the domes of their buildings do not compare in symmetry and geometrical accuracy of measurement with the far-famed dome of St Peter's yet the eye of the beholder is dazzled, and after gazing in mute admiration upon them for hours he turns away dissatisfied only to look back again.

There are many tombs near Golconda. Twelve of these, however, are lofty and sublime in appearance, and when their domes are gilded by the rays of the setting sun, and the scene is rendered life-like by the presence of a caravan of camels, loaded with the rich treasures of the Eastern world, men dressed in gay costume, or resplendent with the glitter of burnished armor, truly we may say: "Golconda! thy diamonds glitter in the mines, but even on the surface are gems of priceless value!"

When you look upon the tomb of Hyder Ali the splendid pile of building will remind you of one of the most remarkable men, for such he really was. Its occupant rose from a situation of the most absolute obscurity, and gradually passing, as by an inclined plane, to the command of the army, he deposed the Rajah Nunjeraj, and was chosen to govern the destinies of India. Hyder Ali died at the advanced age of eighty.

THE OLDEST FORTIFICATION IN AMERICA.—The Spanish Fort of San Juan de Pinos, now called fort Marion, at St Augustine, Fla., is the oldest fortification on the Western continent still used as a place of defence. It covers about an acre of ground, and would accommodate a garrison of 1,000 men, with 100 guns. It was begun in 1520 and completed in 1756, the Indians being compelled to do the labor of building. Over the entrance is the Spanish coat-of-arms and the name of the then Governor, the chief engineer of the works, and the date of the completion of the fort. In 1835 a dungeon was discovered by the caving of a wall from above, and in it were two iron cages, just large enough to admit the body of a man, and each contained a human skeleton. Who the victims were there is no tradition to tell. In one of the dungeons Osceola was chained, previous to his removal to Fort Moultrie. The fort is now garrisoned by an old sergeant.

A MOCK TEMPERANCE CRUSADE.—There was a burlesque crusade in Chattanooga a few nights ago. The Commercial says: The chaplain had the book for signatures, made of the backs of an old book with a deck of cards distributed and pasted on the inside. Each signature would select his favorite card and sign his name. They visited all of the saloons, and upon entering would sing, 'Dot Leetle German Band,' the chaplain would call for signers, after which they would all take a drink, singing, 'Oh, how I love Jesus,' and then join in prayer. The shocking mockers ended in a row and fight. The knife was promiscuously used, but the parties were arrested before a fatal wound was inflicted. One of them was found to have a large pistol concealed about his clothes.

PLAN FOR TALKING WITH THE WISE MEN IN VENUS.—Signaling between the earth and the planet Venus is a suggestion made in all good faith by a French astronomer, M. Charles Cros, who considers the coming transit of Venus to be a good opportunity for ascertaining whether there are inhabitants on that planet, and if so, entering into relations with them. He says: "It is possible that Venus is inhabited, that among its inhabitants are astronomers; that the latter judge the passage of their planet across the solar disc to be an object to excite our curiosity. Finally, it is possible that these savants will strive in some way to make signals to us at the precise moment when they might suppose that many telescopes will be leveled at their planet."

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco [illegible] California [illegible]

[illegible] market [illegible] during the day [illegible] the [illegible] season [illegible] bring back [illegible] the portion [illegible] funds will be fully [illegible] to the current [illegible] Even [illegible] rates [illegible] of the bank [illegible] and borrowers find more favor in the market than they [illegible] At the bank the usual rates are maintained on the ground that they [illegible] the year round and in seasons when they could get [illegible] in the open market.

The Wear and Tear of Currency.

An interesting but not a new point in the currency question is discussed by a correspondent of the New York [illegible] which has not received any attention in the [illegible] on this matter [illegible] December 18[illegible] it was estimated that the loss of legal tenders from wear and tear destruction [illegible] by sinking of vessels, ships and steamboats had been about $25,000,000. The Post's correspondent, however, prints an elaborate table to show that the average loss has been over one per cent per annum on the entire volume of paper currency and so figures up a total loss of $[illegible] in the twelve years since 1861, and to sustain this position refers to Treasurer Spinner's report for 187[illegible] in which after stating the amount of U S currency outstanding at the close of the fiscal year November 1 $[illegible] he says: "From this amount there should be allowed a large margin for notes of all kinds that have been destroyed and lost and that will never be presented for redemption." Referring to the issue of postage currency he states that these facts would seem to indicate that nearly the whole of this issue originally amounting to $20,21[illegible] that still exists has been redeemed and that probably about $[illegible] has been destroyed and can be fairly deducted from the actual circulation of the fractional currency and that the national indebtedness is reduced by that amount.

The loss on this $[illegible] of fractional currency is over 21½ per cent on the amount issued.

European Grain Markets

From our latest exchanges we gather the following in relation to the grain markets of Europe:

MARCH 13—London—Cargoes off coast wheat and corn improving; cargoes on passage wheat stiff. Mark Lane—Wheat and corn turn dearer; good cargoes No 2 spring wheat off coast [illegible] good cargoes California wheat off coast [illegible] good cargoes American mixed corn off coast [illegible] fair average [illegible] shipment in April and May 37s 6d. English country markets wheat turn dearer. French do rising. Liverpool—Wheat very quiet; corn easier. California club wheat 12s 8d[illegible] do white 12s 6d[illegible]

The Mark Lane Express of the [illegible] inst says:

"When we come to facts we find our deliveries increasingly short, being 1,100 qrs less than the small ones of last week, and about 8,000 qrs below the [illegible] 18[illegible] so unless foreign supplies come freely to the season's end we may yet feel a pinch. In Paris the flour trade has again given way suddenly [illegible] francs or about 2s per sack and wheat could not be sold without taking about 1s less, but in several of the provincial markets there has been a rise to the same extent, native supplies being so short. This is only a repeat of the difficulties attendant on a range of comparatively high rates—though Hungarian millers have been forced to pay them again to meet their engagements, while the German, Dutch and Belgian markets show little change, but trade has been inactive. The effect of the late monetary crisis in New York is still seen in a greater sensitiveness to English advices, though with No 1 Spring Wheat at 38s we do not see the probability of much further change. San Francisco has noted a decline of 3s. It is therefore to America that we shall have principally to look to make up our deficit, and as lately half our foreign arrivals have proceeded from this source, we may not be disappointed. Should, however, further English supplies become less and less and give the impression to foreign holders that we are nearing exhaustion, little would be thought of present stocks, and a fair run of business mark the season's close at better prices, especially should any future weather be of an untoward character."

The rise foreshadowed by the Mark Lane Express has not yet been experienced in Wheat. But in Corn the advance in Liverpool has been from 33s 6d per quarter on March [illegible] to 40s per quarter on March 13th.

The New York Bulletin of the [illegible] says:

"The European grain markets are beginning to be more or less affected by prospective heavy drafts on India account. According to the last Mark Lane Express the country markets are beginning to harden. In France there is a pause in the decline; in Belgium prices are recovering; while in Hungary and Italy, at Odessa and Algeria rates keep high, both of Wheat and Rye as well as of Maize." These taken in connection are significant facts and can scarcely be received with indifference by those who are endeavoring to forecast the future of the markets here.

Miscellaneous.

The French bark Henry Sempe was chartered in San Francisco last week to load wheat at this port for Cork at £4 12s 6d, a reduction on former rates of about 7s 6d.

There was an increase of disengaged tonnage in San Francisco last week by about 6,000 tons, the total number of disengaged vessels in that port on the 19th being 1[illegible] with an aggregate capacity of 10,8[illegible] tons.

Free trade is evidently in disrepute in Canada, the resolutions adopted at the recent meeting of the manufacturers at Toronto being emphatic in demanding a higher tariff. The manufacturers complain that the 30 and 25 per cent duties of the tariff of 1860 were lowered to 14 per cent by that of 1866 and that they are now unable to contend against American and British competitors.

The House Committee on Coinage, after consulting with Dr Linderman, Director of the Mint, decided to report a bill abolishing the fee charged at the mints for coining gold, and to establish assay offices at Chicago, St Louis and Helena, Montana.

The Treasury Department has promulgated a ruling declaring that the ten days mentioned in the 33d section act of July 14 1870, in which imported merchandise can be forwarded to interior ports without appraisement under the provisions of said act may be properly regarded as ten working days.

Apparently New York is ill at ease concerning its commercial status, and probably it is this fact that has in some measure inspired its opposition to the Centennial project, which would lift Philadelphia into increased prominence. Thus the World says:

Already "the lack of terminal facilities has driven much of the commerce of New York to the opposite shores of New York harbor. Except in a political sense all the shores of that harbor are equally parts of New York. It is possible however to destroy the harbor itself, as constant efforts are making to destroy it, until now it has been found necessary to bring a bill into the Legislature of New York to prevent further encroachments upon it. Possibly the stupid selfishness which has thus driven trade from the island of New York may ultimately avail to drive it away from New York altogether to cities where the wisdom of men is invoked successfully to make up for the niggardliness of nature."

The Yokohama Chamber of Commerce reports the deliveries of foreign goods for the six months ending December 31 1873 were valued at $6,6[illegible] mostly for Dry Goods. Aside of that department the largest item was $1,1[illegible] for Sugar. The receipts of treasure for the same period were $10,0[illegible] including $1,007,[illegible] from Europe and America. The produce exports for the last six months of 1873 show a value of $11,0[illegible] of which $[illegible] was for Silk, $2,400,000 for Silkworm Eggs and $[illegible] for Tea. The export of Treasure amounted to $[illegible] including $15,6[illegible] to San Francisco and $3,001,800 to Europe. The tonnage movement embraced 24,500 tons inward and 223,500 tons outward.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Nesmith made an argument before the House Committee on Commerce to-day urging the construction of a harbor of refuge at Port Orford, Oregon. Both gentlemen, however, said they would not antagonize the respective claims of the two places to the extent of delaying action in favor of either.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY

ITS TOWNS, FARM PRODUCTS, AND POLITICS.

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

OREGON CITY, March 25, 1874.

The spring has opened most favorably; everything looks bright and cheerful. The farmers are as busy as bees preparing for planting spring wheat. Great progress is being made in clearing the timbered land in which Clackamas county abounds. There will be a large quantity of soil cultivated this year compared with last season. The signs of industry are obvious and gratifying. While men are busy at the plow, with the spade and the ax the women are putting their houses and gardens in good condition. Spring is a charming time in the natural world, and is a precious period in human life. It is then that youth is made or unmade. If good principles are established, the mind and heart well cultivated, the results will be accordingly. What is sown in youth will produce corresponding fruit afterwards. While the country is so attractive at this season of the year, the country towns are generally dull and little business doing. The business man has reaped his harvest and the farmer is preparing for another one.

MILWAUKIE

Is an illustration of this statement. It is not only remarkably dull at this season of the year, but it has all the appearance of decay, which is likely to prove fatal as a place of business. There are two matters worth noticing at this place.

THE STANDARD FLOURING MILL

Has been thoroughly repaired, and in full working order since January. Its former reputation for making choice flour was equal to any mill in the State. The flour made now is fully equal to its former high character. The mill runs four pair of burrs, can make an average of 125 barrels of flour a day, it has the advantage of a fine waterpower and a first class miller.

MR. LUELLING'S ORCHARDS

Are the second redeeming feature of Milwaukie. He has fifteen acres containing the choicest kinds of apple, pear, cherry, peach, plum, and prune trees, and grape vines as well as currents, raspberries, blackberries and gooseberries, besides 100,000 of these varieties in his nursery. His fruit house for curing and his fruit shed for sorting and packing fruit for market are models of neatness and completeness. He sold last year $2,000 worth of fruit. It will be a very interesting place to visit during the summer months. Mr Luelling's brother planted the first fruit trees in the Willamette valley, which he brought with him across the plains in the early days of immigration to Oregon. These facts go to show how well the soil and climate of the valley are adapted for raising choice fruits, how profitable it is to those who understand the business, and how indolent and criminal the farmers are who are allowing the great majority of their orchards to run into mere scrub.

OREGON CITY

Is holding its own cleverly. Business is very dull at present, arising from the fact that farmers are very busy on their farms. The splendid water power at this place should have made it a much more important place than it is at present and its growth rapid as a manufacturing center. That it will be so in time, there can be but little doubt. The rebuilding of

THE OREGON CITY WOOLEN MILL

Is a matter of great importance to the place, creditable to the enterprise of the proprietors and honorable to the manufacturing interests of the State. There are 24 looms, [illegible] jacks, 7 sets of cards and 4 gigs in full working order, besides all the machinery for preparing and finishing. There are 35,000 yards of goods made each month, embracing blankets, flannels, cassimeres and tweeds. About 500,000 pounds of wool are used in the year. A hundred persons are employed in the different departments. The demand for the goods is steadily increasing, orders have been from three to six months ahead of the work. The mill has been running fifteen hours a day for months, and is doing so now, preparing goods for the spring trade. The principal markets are Portland and San Francisco.

THE IMPERIAL AND OREGON CITY FLOUR MILLS

Have done a large and profitable business during the year. Mr C. V. Church, one of the purchasers of the latter mill, intends making San Francisco his headquarters in order to [illegible] to look after the interests of the firm in that market.

THE WHEAT RAISED IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY

Is very limited, compared with the size of the county and other portions of the Willamette valley. There were only shipped of this county [illegible] wheat:

	Bushels
From Aurora	[illegible]
To Oregon City	[illegible]
To Portland	[illegible]
From other points	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

This makes, for the eight wheat counties of the Willamette valley, [illegible] [illegible] shipped and ready for shipping [illegible] harvest of 1873.

THE POLITICIANS, [illegible] CLACKAMAS COUNTY

Are coming to the front. The leaders of the ring in the Republican party think that their ticket will carry the State. The Democrats are sanguine of coming [illegible] by 200 majority. The Independents say they have a fair prospect of running the winning ticket. One thing is certain—there never was [illegible] spirit of independent [illegible] the citizens of this county [illegible] at present. The day of party rule [illegible] political [illegible] are numbered. With the [illegible] personal [illegible] [illegible] slavery are [illegible] with the same [illegible] These great events have been hastened by the corruption and corrupt practices of the great [illegible] who have [illegible] the gifts of the nation as a means to corrupt politicians and [illegible] to [illegible] their own selfish purposes, thereby undermining the foundations of political life and corrupting the moral principles of the nation, making us politically a by-word and a reproach among the civilized nations of the world.
